Training Little Children

ARTICLE XLIV

By Mrs. Edith Clark Cowles

From the instant a mother hears that first significant cry which proclaims to the world the birth of a new life, she is confronted by a problem which increases in complexity with the passing of the years.

If she is a busy mother, and most mothers are busy, she will soon realize that upon the early habits of her baby will depend her ability to fulfill her many duties. She can train the baby to be entirely dependent upon her during his waking hours, and thus let him become the spoiled child who later develops into a family nuisance, or she can begin even when he is in his tiny crib to sow the seed of self-reliance, which will make of him the responsible and desirable citizen. She would not be guilty of pulling up the sprouting plant to see if it is growing; why carry her baby about in her arms or hold him in her lap when he can kick and crawl so much more freely in his own bed?

The baby who is bathed, fed, given his nap regularly, allowed freedom in which to grow and not hampered by too much attention will develop into a healthy, happy, helpful child and be a joy to his parents and a pleasure to their friends. The Children's Bureau at Washington furnishes, upon request, bulletins relating to the food, general care and physical training of the infant.

As baby's mind develops he will need diversion and amusement. For this purpose toys are useful which do not have sharp edges and which can be washed and kept sterile. A bell or rattle for the baby to kick may be hung from his crib or carriage, but it must be hung at an angle which will not produce eye-strain.

From earliest infancy the child displays a spirit of investigation which it is well always to gratify. If possible, never leave his questions unanswered. If you lack the information, say that you do not know but will find out and tell him; and keep your word. Few parents realize that they typify to the child the spirit of omniscience which God typifies to them, and that it behooves them constantly to strengthen such faith. The child who finds that he can depend upon what his parents tell him is less apt in his turn to deceive them, and the seed of mutual understanding and confidence is thus sown, to sprout and bloom for all time.

The spirit of investigation often leads children into the habit of touching every object they see. This is not always naughtiness and should not be so stigmatized. A baby's attention can be diverted from one object to another, while older children will desist from investigation as soon as their curiosity is satisfied. But if they are told unqualifiedly that a certain object must not be touched, they seem impelled by an irresistible force to handle that object in preference to all others. It is well to keep in mind the advantage to be gained by positive suggestion. Divert the child's mind by mentioning something which he may do, rather than strengthen his determination by a peremptory command as to what he may not do.

DON'T TAKE A CHANCE WITH FIRE

"It never pays to take a chance with fire," says a circular issued by the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture, in its campaign against forest fires. "If you have got to gamble take a 'flyer' on the stock market or play the ponies, but don't take a chance on fire."

"Every thousand feet of green timber near your home is worth at least $10 in wages to you and your neighbors, besides its stumpage value to its owner. If it is on national forest land you are part owner, and if it is destroyed by fire you lose both values."

"Burned timber pays no wages," the circular says. "The prosperity and development of your locality is going to depend upon keeping that timber green."

"Don't take a chance with fire yourself, and don't let your neighbor do it. When you burn brush take every precaution to obey the law and see that your neighbor does. Remember that your home and his can go up in smoke from just one piece of carelessness."

"The biggest fires in history were started by those who didn't think the woods would burn. Be as careful of fire as you are of powder; it's just as dangerous."

Upon These Arguments We Rest Our Case

YOU, the buyers, are the real builders of wagons. You put the final Okay upon the use of certain materials and construction when you buy a wagon containing them—and refuse to buy a wagon that does not. We want to show you how the Thornhill Wagon is built. Upon a plain statement of facts we are willing to rest our case. We believe the Thornhill way would be your way if you should build a wagon.

THORNHILL WAGONS

Full Circle Iron Malleable Front Houn Plate Trussed Bolsters and Gears Long Wear Beds

In turning and backing up, with the ordinary circle iron, which is only a half circle, bolsters run off the end of the track and hang. It is difficult to make short turns and back up. The Thornhill full circle iron gives a continuous track on which the bolsters can turn. The gears of Thornhill wagons stay in line for life. Instead of the usual front houn plate, a houn plate of malleable iron is used. It is a metal jacket braced at eight points that keeps gears from ever getting out of line. For spokes and axles tough second growth highland hickory is used. For hubs and felloes the sturdy white oak is preferred. This wood grows upon the mountain side. The ground is hard—the climate severe. It has to fight for life. It has nearly twice the strength of oak and hickory that grows under softer conditions. Outdoors under shelter it remains for three to five years. The sap dries in it, giving it a strength that's kin to steel.

If you examine the beds of Thornhill Wagons closely you will see at once the superiority of the construction. The bottoms are re-inforced over front and rear bolsters.

Come in and examine this wagon for yourself. We will take pleasure and pride in showing you a Thornhill—The wagon made of tough highland oak and hickory—with features all others lack.

Phonographs and Records

No needles to change, plays with a sapphire ball. It gives absolutely accurate and distinct reproduction, in fact perfect duplication of tone. The sapphire ball will not wear out the records. We guarantee every Pathe record to play at least one thousand times with Pathe sapphire ball, without losing the unexcelled beauty of tone, and without showing any perceptible wear on record.

The PATHE is the phonograph you have been wanting. Come in and let us show you and you will be convinced.

It is our desire to bring home the fact that our bank can help you to a large extent in financial affairs. The price of prosperity is industry and economy and those who will not pay the price reap only penury. We all make enough money to become comfortably established but it is only the wise few who save it.
